NELSON MORE THAN "ANOTHER PILOT" TO WILL ROGERS

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 7.—Our foreign friends always accuse us of being a loud, boisterous nation. Well, if you don't think America can stand still and keep its mouth shut you just watch it as I have today, when Hagen and Diegel are putting. The paper states "another mail pilot found crushed on a hillside." Well, he might have been just another pilot to that newspaper, but he was more than that to me. This same boy Nelson, in the graveyard of aviators, Bellefonte, Pa., tried to get me through those mountains to New York one stormy night. He set me and I down that night in a bare spot no larger than a film actress' living room, in my first forced landing and without a scratch. So you will pardon me if I look on him as a little more than "just another pilot." He was my first hero.
Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEW OBSERVES

SHOP IN NEW CASTLE!

Pa New is in receipt of a letter from a resident of Croton, asking why some action is not taken to have ashes placed on the Croton hill when it is icy. He says that it is necessary at times to make long detours in order to get around this dangerous hill. There is need for a new fence along this hill, one that would mean real safety, or there will be some serious accidents this winter, he adds.

Probably within a few years it will not be necessary to leave Lawrence county to hunt deer. Yesterday a resident of the vicinity of Portersville Station was in New Castle and reported that two bucks had been shot during the week near the Butler-Lawrence county line.

If you haven't arranged to have your home decorated for the yuletide season, make the plans at once. There is a double reason for the decorating this year. It is the Christmas season, and at the same time New Castle is going to have some five thousand visitors from all sections of the state here for a two-day convention, and the decoration will give a memorable appearance to the city.

With the change in weather conditions today, early winter sport programs of the youngsters, sled-riding and ice skating, have been postponed for a period. Snow is almost gone, and ice is melting.

Football season may be over on the gridiron at Franklin field, but it is still a popular sport on the "commons" around in various parts of the city.

Santa Claus is on the job today, and will probably be on hand at the various toy emporiums from now on until the night of December 24, when he makes his mysterious flight across the nation.

President Hoover Immediately Will Appoint Special
Haitian Commission

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Five natives were killed and twenty wounded yesterday when U. S. Marines stationed in the Republic of Haiti were "compelled to fire into a mob" of strikers at Aux Cayes, the state department announced today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—So serious has the strike situation become in Haiti that approximately 300 Marine reinforcements are enroute to the Negro Republic today, from the Marine base at Quantico, Va., additional Marines may go from Parris Island, S. C.

In addition to the Marine reinforcements, the U. S. Cruiser Galveston, now stationed at Guantanamo Bay, has been ordered to proceed immediately to Jacmel, Haiti.

President Hoover is alarmed at the sudden change in the situation which has existed since October 31 when students and teachers went on strike because the school budget was cut $2,000. He sent a special message to congress yesterday advising of the grave developments in Haiti but both houses had adjourned. The message will be read in the house today. The senate does not meet again until Monday.

To Appoint Commission.
The message is believed to inform congress that the president will appoint at once the special Haitian commission he referred to in his annual message, and to advise the situation demanded Marine reinforcements. There are 700 Marines on duty in Haiti now.

The Marines left Quantico at 9:35 o'clock last night on the Washington-Norfolk boat and arrived at the Virginia port at 7 a. m. today. They will embark on the Transport Wright during the day.

(International News Service)
OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 7.—The second hunting fatality in this section was made known today when the body of Arnold Edinger, 18, of Foxburg, Clarion county, was found in the croch of a tree on the south side of the Allegheny River between Emelton and Foxburg.

George F. Gerwick, who found the body, said the hunter's shotgun was found discharged under the tree. It was believed that the gun fell from Edinger's hands and was discharged as it struck the ground. The charge entered his right breast.

Suspicious Character On North Hill Street

It was reported to the police about 10:30 o'clock last night that there had been a man call at a Euclid avenue residence and ask permission to use a telephone.

Permission was granted and the conversation and dress of the man was such as to cause the owner of the home and telephone to ask him some questions.

The man claimed he was a lineman from Georgia and that he resided on Delaware avenue. The description of the man was as follows:—stocky build and wearing blue overalls. The police are investigating the case.

HOOVER ASKS PROBE OF HAITI CONDITIONS

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—On the heels of the dispatch of 500 additional marines to Haiti and the announcement by the state department that marines had killed five natives in yesterday's rioting, President Hoover sent congress a special message this afternoon, reviewing the situation and requesting that congress immediately provide an appropriation of $50,000 to defray the expenses of a commission's going to Haiti to conduct a thorough investigation into conditions.

In his annual message to congress earlier in the week the President had proposed that a governmental commission go to Haiti and make a study of the situation there. In that same message the President spoke of the desirability of taking the marines away when conditions made it possible.

Since that message, however, he reported to congress today, troublesome conditions have arisen in the little black republic which has necessitated the dispatch of 500 additional marines to reinforce the 700 already there.

The fresh trouble makes such an investigation as he proposed all the more necessary, in Mr. Hoover's opinion.

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 7.—Virtually all shipping in the English Channel was brought to a standstill today as a result of the furious gales which have swept all Britain during the last few days, causing the loss of 26 lives. Most of the casualties occurred in accidents to shipping.

After a few hours respite the storm broke with renewed fury again last night, uprooting trees, damaging a number of houses and buildings and demolishing transportation all through England. London felt the full fury of the gale, which was accompanied by an electrical display uncommon in this country.

Shipping Crippled

The Italian tanker Lucania was driven ashore at Dover during the night, while the French steamer Ornaïs II was wrecked off Penzance. The crew of the Ornaïs was rescued by lifeboats putting out from shore, and the Lucania was refloated with the high tide.

All channel boats operating between Calais and Boulogne, one of the principle routes from England to the continent, were tied up at their piers today, unable to venture out into the wind-tossed channel.

More than half a dozen vessels have been rendered helpless by the storm, and in some cases rescue boats were not able to arrive in time to spare loss of life. The steamship Frances Duncan foundered off Lands End with the loss of 16 lives, while an Irish fishing boat was swept out to sea with its entire crew.

Short Time

(International News Service)
READING, Pa., Dec. 7.—Members of the U. S. Senate or any one else outside the State of Pennsylvania will not be permitted to have a part in the naming of a man to fill the junior senate seat denied to William S. Vare, Governor John S. Fisher emphatically asserted during the course of his address to the 300 officers of the Pennsylvania National Guard in convention here.

Senators Can't Dictate

The governor made it clear that he would stand for no dictation from certain senators regardless of threats made on the floor of the senate yesterday. He mentioned the name of Joseph R. Grundy, Bristol manufacturer, as a likely appointee although declining to give any definite indications of the man he will name or when the appointment will be made.

Announcement of his appointment is only a matter of hours and will be made "in due time" from his executive offices in Harrisburg, the governor said.

Governor Fisher's terse statement that he would permit no dictation from any outside source brought rounds of applause from his audience. The remarks are believed to have been directed at Senator Gerald P. Nye. (Continued On Page Five)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The political eyes of the nation were turned on Pennsylvania today where Governor John S. Fisher was contemplating the appointment of a Republican to occupy the Senatorial seat left vacant when the senate barred both Senator-elect William S. Vare and his Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson.

The prospect of a new battle to bar Pennsylvania's choice for this junior senatorship increased political interest in the situation. A bold threat to challenge the admission of Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, or "any other member of that crowd," already has been voiced by young Senator Nye (R) of N. D., although with little support thus far from other members of the Democratic-Insurgent coalition.

Rumor Grundy Favorite

The name of Grundy, who has been a financial angel to the Republican party for the last quarter century, has headed the list of prominent Pennsylvanians available for the appointment. Rumors have persisted that he will be tendered the appointment, though reports conflict over his likelihood to accept it. While at first, his friends were certain he would not enter public life after forty years in the shadows, a noticeable change of sentiment now indicates he will accept the senatorial toga if it is tendered.

Grundy can take it too without fear of being barred as were Vare and Wilson. Despite Nye's threat, it appeared entirely probable the senate would seat him without inquiry on the strength of his appointment. This course is favored by Senator Norris (R) of Neb., the insurgent leader, who directed the fight against Vare.

Norris Position

In an exclusive statement, Norris told International News Service he did not agree with Nye's position.

Arrangements were made at a meeting of representatives of the Better Business Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce and the Woman's Club, held yesterday, for a big celebration here Friday evening, December 13th, as the Festoon Lighting in the business district is turned on.

The celebration will include a parade, and program on the Diamond, and from that time on, the Christmas spirit will prevail in increasing interest to citizens of the city.

The festivities Friday evening will open at 7:30, when a half dozen bands will form in various sections adjacent to the business section and will march to the Diamond, where they will converge and will march about the Diamond. The fire whistle will be blown at 7:30, at which time, Mayor W. H. Scouts' Air Meet Is Huge Success

Hundred See Model Planes
Flown By Own Makers;
Many On Exhibition

CONTEST OCCURS AT AUDITORIUM

One hundred scouts and friends gathered at the Carnegie Auditorium Friday night to participate in and witness the Lawrence county Boy Scout council's first model airplane flying contest and exhibition. Real craftsmanship was displayed in the models which the boys exhibited, all products of their own hands.

William Lee of Troop 17 won the highest honors of the contest in the exhibition non-flying contest with his Curtis-Hawk model. Kenneth Atkinson of Troop 17 took second place, also entering a Curtis-Hawk. Honorable mention was given Ralph Montgomery of Troop 15 for the Stinson-Detroit model which he entered.

In the flying model contest, William Lee also won first place honors with his Mystery Tractor which took to the air gracefully. Other flying models were displayed by Kenneth Wallace and Kenneth Atkinson. No second place honors were given in this event.

Numerous parents and friends of the boys who entered planes were in attendance. Scout Commissioner Ralph F. Davis opened the contest, and following this P. A. Wallace, chairman of the contest committee, explained the rules. Then competition began.

The scouts were fortunate in having David McGoun of the Bradford airport and Henry J. Hamilton of the New Castle Aero Club in attendance as judges. They passed the work of the boys and their aeronautic activities.

Friday night's contest is a forerunner of the grand flying contest which will occur next spring at the Bradford airport on the New Castle-Youngstown highway. It is expected that hundreds of planes will be entered in that meet. Not only scouts but all boys of the county as well will be privileged to compete in the airport contest, and a real contest is planned for this time.

Besides Mr. Wallace on the committee that arranged last night's contest were William H. Haley and J. A. Pearson.

present, about 125 all together. Pep singing also helped fill the spare time at the table.

The evening opened at 6:45 with a sumptuous turkey dinner in the club dining room. Sumptuous is the only word that can describe it for there was a heap of everything, and all of it well cooked and served. During the dinner, several musical numbers filled in holes between courses.

O. A. Rodgers invoked the divine blessing.

James Jackamo and Gilbert Ross of the Composing Room surprised the crowd with a harmonica and ukulele duet and the boys ran out of numbers, supplying encores. The Pi Id Quartet, consisting of Ollie Rodgers, Charles E. Allen, James A. Jackamo and Bart Richards, accompanied by Carl Kuechler, harmonized through some popular numbers, opening their act with that old time number "How Do You Do," using the names of various department heads in the choruses.

Magisto in Person
Following the dinner, "Magisto The Prestidigitator" whose workaday name is Carl Kuechler, presented a series of tricks that only proved the old axiom that the "quickness of the hand deceives the eye."

Then the dancing and cards. In the ball room a fine orchestra kept things pepped up until 11:30 with a lot of the folks dancing who hadn't stepped out since the quadrille went out of fashion. For those who wanted cards, the bridge tables were busy, and still others played billiards.

It was a complete evening, complete in every respect. It was the kind of family gathering that sends everybody home feeling good, with in legal limits of course, and not a self to the utmost.

The party was the courtesy of the general manager, J. F. Rentz and the stockholders of The News and will be remembered as a real evening.

The TOWN DOCTOR

(The Doctor of Towns)

Says:

DO YOU STILL BELIEVE IN SANTA CLAUS?

There are many people who still believe in Santa Claus. They must believe in Santa Claus, for year after year, they expect and receive gifts which, if they did not believe in Santa Claus, they would never get.

This year, last year, and the year before that, you were showered with gifts and blessings, presents and remembrances. You accepted them and made use of them, yet, as if they were gifts from old St. Nick, you made no visible acknowledgment, and gave nothing in return.

You know what I mean—free schools, parks and playgrounds for your children; constant protection of you and yours from vandals, tricksters and murderers; twenty-four hour guarding of your property; unceasing vigilance over your health and well being. You live in a heated home with electric lights, running water and a radio; eat good food; sleep in a good bed; go places and see things, riding in your own motor car over wonderful roads—all GIFTS, and from whom—Santa Claus?

For what you are, what you have, whatever you enjoy and partake of, you are not alone responsible. Without neighbors, without friends, without the community of which you are a part, you could not be where you are with what you have, or doing what you do as you do it.

If you DO believe in Santa Claus—if you DO NOT believe that others should be done by as they have done and do for you, then never mind the debt you owe!

If you DO NOT believe in Santa Claus, then give thanks for all that New Castle has made possible for you and yours, NOT just in the quiet sanctuary of your heart and mind, but openly manifested in words and deeds—show your gratitude by starting NOW to do YOUR part to do for New Castle what New Castle has done for you.

You can show your worth at no better time. As you finish reading this, step to your telephone and call 2660 and say, "What can I do to help you fellows do something to make New Castle a better place for all of us to live, work, play and prosper?"

Don't say to yourself, "I'll do that sometime, but I'm too busy now," or "I'll wait 'til I see those fellows, then tell them"—do it now! The busier you are, the quicker you should do it, for it shows the stuff you're made of. Anybody can do it when he hasn't anything else to do, but it takes a regular fellow, a real woman, to do it when they are busy.

This is the Christmas season. Get the spirit of it and make your neighbor, be he high or low, rich or poor, a present by offering, at least to get together with others and do something for the good of New Castle. Go ahead—do it now—you'll feel better, be better, and the other fellow will appreciate it.

A big hunter walked into The News office this morning wearing a flaming red cap. He was just coming back from a hunt in the big game woods and said it was necessary to wear the cap to prevent being mistaken for a deer or bear. He proudly exhibited a buck that was his trophy of the hunt.

Lewis Wells, who spent some time a few years ago on the editorial staff of The News, dropped in on the force last night for a short chat. Mr. Wells had just driven across the United States from Hollywood, California, where he had been at work for some time, and not in the movies. He made remarkable time in the trip, and said that a cross-continent tour via auto nowadays is not much of an undertaking.

Bandit activities are becoming too numerous in this city. If you see any suspicious looking persons in your neighborhood, or see any strangers acting suspiciously, call the police and have them investigated at once.

Youth of Lawrence county staged an airplane flying and exhibition contest at the Carnegie auditorium last night before a goodly number of witnesses. The event was one of the high spots in the scout's winter program. Next spring there will be a final elimination for the boys at the Bradford field.

Pa Newc would be interested to know whether there is any law that gives constables or other officials right to use poles around the city as places to post bills.

Should a fire of tremendous proportions arise in the boro of Bessemer, necessitating help from New Castle, the local departments can rush there knowing well that water problem can be handled most ably. Boro officials saw to it that measurements of their new water hydrants conformed with the hoses on New Castle's trucks. Difference in size of nozzle and fire plugs would have made it impossible to use the water. Bessemer has just installed a new water system.

Don't forget to mail Christmas packages early, and place Christmas seals on them.

Ice which had formed in the Neshannock creek during the recent cold spell was found to be six inches thick at the old Roseman dam, when employees of the Woods and Golden Co. began work on tearing out the dam this morning.

Today is almost springlike, a balmy feeling being noticeable in the air. Indications at noon pointed to rain.

Pa Newc notes that Christmas trees are already being displayed by some of the dealers. The Christmas spirit is beginning to be seen and felt on every hand.

It is not so easy to carry an "A" radio battery very far, but Pa Newc saw a man who had a good system of transportation the other day. He had the battery placed on a small sled and was hauling it along the sidewalk comfortably.

ended state is accounted for in a rather remarkable way: It has come to be known that the radiative energy of the sun is a force to be reckoned with. The more recent investigations suggest that the quiescent prominences are held up or maintained in their positions by the energy that is constantly radiated away from the sun, offsetting solar gravitation. The behavior of quiescent prominences have been compared to "a grove of banyan trees" as though they were resting upon stems and columns that extend down to the chromosphere, scarcely modifying their appearance for days.

Honoring Attorney and Mrs. Charles H. Young, members of the school board and guests were present in the tea room of the George Washington Junior high school, Friday evening at a dinner. Mr. Young recently retired from the school board after six years service and for the purpose of marking this service, the dinner was held.

Covers were laid for 25 with Attorney Roy W. Hazen acting as master of ceremonies. Short addresses were delivered by Dr. C. C. Green, A. C. Hyde and President Daniel B. Woolcock, with Mr. Young responding. A feature of the evening was an original poem composed by Mrs. J. C. B. Douthett in honor of Mr. Young's service.

Music for the evening was presented by the George Washington orchestra directed by John E. Paton. While the dinner was served by the girls of grade 8-A of the school, supervised by Mrs. H. D. Taylor.

HOOVER CANONIZED

PRESIDENT HOOVER has in various ways made an impress on the country during his few months in the white house. He has shown himself to be a much more sagacious politician than his glib detractors imagined him to be.

In fitting his policies to the needs of the time and the expectations of the people, he has displayed penetrating qualities of mind. His simplicity of personal bearing, too, his utter lack of affectation and disdain of official pomp, have won him a distinct place in the gallery of national portraits. Attribute as much of his success as we please to good fortune, there remains enough which is his individual achievement.

Public men and politicians come and go, but it will be found in the long run that none of them acquire so much influence, or last so well, as the man who can speak to the people with the weight of an assured character.

Hoover is not a brilliant man and he never seeks the applause of the crowd. But he stands so four-square, is so honest and has such a sound judgment that his siding with one policy or another is felt to be like a reinforcement by a powerful army.

There are, of course, examples of men of showy abilities and fascinating personalities who appear for a time to run away with everything. The American people have been under the spell of such men but great as is their charm, wonderful as is their following, which they so easily gather, their display of fireworks usually fades and falls while the fixed stars of the public men of strong and steadfast character continue to shine.

ECONOMIC EFFECTS OF CHANGING STYLES

That there is economic waste in constant changes in styles has long been recognized. The head of the Bureau of Economics in the Department of Agriculture emphasizes the fact that there is more change than real value in the attempt to increase sales by the style argument. More and more producers as well as consumers, we are told, would like to see a fundamental standardization. This is not to say that everyone should dress alike; that would mean an intolerable monotony. Style is the man, or more particularly the woman, in another sense than Buffon meant. Clothes may properly express individuality. The protest is not against this, but against change for the mere sake of change.

It may be doubted if the practice increases sales to the extent generally imagined. Those who can afford to follow every whim of fashion are few in comparison with the mass of buyers. It is easy enough to decree "what will be worn this year," but most of us feel obliged to stick to our old clothes until they wear out. So far as the producer is concerned, the rule works both ways.

Doubtless styles are usually changed for commercial purposes. The return of the long skirt for evening wear is an instance. But the question remains whether the transitory benefit compensates for the loss of steady demand. The few may gain something; but the many are quite as likely to lose.

TARIFF FOR ALL

The proof that universal protection of American industry and labor is a success is the prosperity of the American people. The depression of agriculture was not the result of protection. On the contrary, the chief bulwark against a collapse of agriculture in the United States is the protective tariff. The cure for agricultural ills is not to be found in destroying the prosperity of all nonagricultural workers, which would occur if the American market were opened to foreign products without duty.

The protective tariff surrounds the United States, but does not interfere with free trade within the United States. Thus a market of enormous extent, filled with busy producers, who are necessarily heavy consumers, is created for the common benefit of both producers and consumers.

Arguing that "there is no fundamental conflict between the interests of the farmer and the worker" and that "the lowering of standards of living of either tends to destroy the other" and "the prosperity of one rests upon the well-being of the other," President Hoover told congress that "an effective tariff upon agricultural products, that will compensate the farmer's higher costs and higher standards of living has a dual purpose." Such a tariff not only protects the farmer in his domestic market but it also stimulates him to diversify his crops and to grow products that he could not otherwise produce.

It is no longer a question of whether there shall be a high tariff but a question of how high.

HAZARDOUS OCCUPATIONS

The window washers of New York City recently went on strike, and again one is reminded, not that working men still strike, but that they are willing to work at the most hazardous occupations for a livelihood. It is only when they strike that one hears much about window washers. So one is startled to learn that in the last 10 years 78 window washers have been killed in New York City while working at their jobs. Five who were killed in the last year left families that are now in want; one was killed only a week before the walkout, leaving a wife and three children.

Yet there appears to be no scarcity of window washers. Although men may be killed at the trade, others are ready to step into their places observes the Utica Observer-Dispatch. For a wage they will stand on a precarious perch high above the street and gamble with the law of gravity. Painters working under the very eaves of high buildings, riveters balancing on steel beams at dizzy heights, laborers working under shelving sand pits, or "sand hogs" burrowing through the earth—all make a living in the very jaws of death.

They cannot do these things for money alone. A few days ago there was a moving picture stunt man who slid to his death down a rope from a 20-story building; he was working without pay. And there are the flagpole sitters and the parachute jumpers and the high divers and all the others who find a thrill in thrilling others. How shall this strange zest for taking chances, which is so much a part of some temperaments, be explained?

Americans take their sports seriously, judging from the mortality rate among football players and hunters.

The man who takes the road to make a fortune can tell you better than anybody else about the detours.

When television comes it is said it will cost $1 to see a face. No good. Too many will want to see the face first.

Employment Problem.
Better Brains.
Everybody Happy.
Pity Poor China.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1929, King Features
Syn., Inc.)

President Hoover's forceful address to nearly 400 industrial leaders in Washington Thursday is one for which the country will thank him. It is bound to produce results.

There is no cause for any pessimism or permanent discouragement. But the well-informed men know that there has been a sharp increase in unemployed.

We have in the United States probably fully as many unemployed as there are in Britain, where government pays a "dole," enough to live on, each week to those out of work.

We have here 2,000,000 more unemployed than they have in France, where unemployment is practically unknown.

And this is surprising in the richest, most prosperous country on earth. The president is determined to do something about it.

Prof. Von Economo tells other scientists at Columbia college medical center that man's brain is improving, developing more. And the super-man, mentally speaking, is coming.

The learned Von Economo believes that "new organisms of thought" may develop in the course of evolution. Studying the empty skull of a modern man, comparing it with the skull of a prehistoric man, shows extraordinary development.

There is every reason to be hopeful. Twelve thousand years ago, men were in the late Stone Age. We have done a great deal in 12,000 years. The life of man on earth is only starting. The earth will last for hundreds of millions of years. Science proves it. Something ought to be done in that time.

It would interest and, possibly, frighten us, if we could know what we shall look like at the end of the first million years.

Man, perhaps, will be an enormous head, round and smooth, traveling at will through the air, talking to other planets, with this earth transformed into one big garden, machinery doing all the work, nobody trying to cheat anybody else, nobody trying to pile up money selfishly, any more than a man today would seek to accumulate salt water, with the ocean full of it.

The learned professor even hints that in future man may be born with a brain sufficiently developed to understand Einstein's relativity theory at sight.

It would not be necessary then for a philosopher to die as the great Haeckel died, according to Heine's description, saying "only one man has ever understood me," and adding, after a pause, "and even he did not understand me."

Secretary of State Stimson considers the incident of our appeal to Russia closed, things that "our aims are achieved."

Litvinoff, speaking for Russia, says: "Russia will not yield one inch," and defines the United States.

On this side, some cannot understand why it was necessary for our government to tell Russia what to do. Why were we chosen to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for France and Great Britain?

Britain negotiating friendly treaties with Russia. France receives a Russian ambassador and sends an ambassador to Russia, although Russia owes the French at least 40 billions of francs, real 20-cent francs.

Representations concerning China would have come with much better grace from one of those countries than from this country. Which, with its nose in the air, refuses to recognize the Russian government.

What influence, under those conditions, persuaded Uncle Sam to play the part of the monkey in the fable pulling out the chestnuts?

ETERNAL COMPETITION

Up to the gate of Heaven he came And confidently spoke his name "Of me," said he, "beyond a doubt From time to time you've heard about Ere I was thirty-five years old I'd made a million dollars cold."

"My ads ran in the Evening Post. My name was known from coast to coast. I manufactured the Eclipse. Supreme Superior Weather Strips. Long ere it came my time to die Captain of industry was I."

"Welcome," a smiling angel said. "Of course you know you now are dead. But let me say ere you come in: Here is a harder fight to win. I would not boast if I were you. Napoleon won some battles, too."

"A million dollars! Countless here Made that twice over many a year. Captain of industry, you'll meet World heroes now on every street. I hope you catch just what I mean: The competition here is keen."

"I think you'll find your brief career On earth scarce worth a mention here. Henceforth whatever path you tread You'll meet all history's brilliant dead."

However, don't discouraged be. To learn you've all eternity. (Copyright, 1929, Edgar A. Guest)

It is reported in the cold districts that the bathing suits being worn at the winter resorts now are even briefer than ever. That settles it! We stay right here at home all winter.

Judge Galbreath of Butler after warning lawyers on both sides of an estate case that he would adjourn court if they did not quit rowing, had to shut up the court because they would not cease rioting. We have often wondered why judges did not at least clear the court room inside the railings.

WORLD TWO BILLION YEARS OLD.

There is no longer any dispute about the age of the world as fixed by Bishop Usher at 6,000 years. It is nearer 2,000,000,000. Within a few months the United States bureau of mines has finished analyzing a sample of uranium oxide from the Black Hills which has been existing in its present state long enough to transform 16.42 percent of itself into lead. The time nature requires to do this is 1,067,000,000 years. The readings of geological time give us a new conception of the majesty of creation, the famous scientist Millikan tells us. We'll take his word for it.

A West Virginia prohibition officer declares that Yuletid likker is scarcer this year than ever before. When it is scarce in West Virginia, it's scarce!

In some of the big cities in this country there are stores where one can buy any part of a chicken wanted. If only a leg, wing, or neck, is wanted, it can be had, as well as can be breasts if one has the price. Yes, and the gizzard, also.

Citizens of the United States feel superior to Mexicans—as all ignorant people feel superior to those they know nothing about. But Mexico backward as it is in rural sections, contains an upper class whose brilliance is not to be matched in many lands; and its more intelligent people have given it a constitution and a set of laws more reasonable and just and more careful to shield the rights of the weak than is possessed by any other land. New Laws just passed mark an advance in civilization that might be followed by our own country with profit to all of us. They prohibit an effective way to handle the liquor problem fairly. There is no prohibition but an individual twice arrested for drunkenness is locked up for observation and if he proves to be a chronic alcoholic is given a cure whether he likes it or not. Another law makes it a crime to transmit any venereal disease. Another treatment of the disease compulsory and prohibits the marriage of persons who have it. Another gives the father the right to kill a man who seduces his daughter, and gives to both husbands and wives the right to kill both of the guilty parties when a mate is caught in the act of infidelity. And the "unwritten law" serves the purpose fairly well, but Mexico's way is more honorable and doubtless will prove more effective.

The regulation of Traffic on the Roads And Streets is Still in its infancy.

Schools for the mountain children of Virginia and other out of the way places are to be started through various agencies. America Hails Commander Byrd Knight Of Air, Ice And Snow

Airman's Achievement In Major Exploration Declared Thrilling Accomplishment And Real Contribution To Science

The luster of romance in Richard Byrd's achievements naturally outshines, in the eye of most observers the more serious phases of his South Pole flight and other explorations but along with the hero's tributes there is a generous share of deeply appreciative comment of the contribution to science.

"No famous military leader," according to the NEW YORK TIMES, "ever planned more carefully a critical battle than did Byrd his fight with ice and cold and storm and darkness, waiting for the day when the crown of his endeavor would be within his grasp. Make no mistake about this. We have not the record of a sudden, haphazard dash for the South Pole, but the nicely calculated reaching of an end long foreseen and set out for in the cool spirit of a scientist. It was adventure, but sure, but adventure deliberately worked out in advance and timed to the very hour."

"With the exception of a minor accident," says the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "this modern explorer has completed, without mishap, three of the most difficult undertakings known to man. It is a fine tribute to the keen yet methodical mind of this scion of a noted Virginia family. Particularly in his polar flights, Byrd has been faced with almost insurmountable difficulties, the transportation and assembling of big plane alone being an accomplishment of rare merit, but with the aid of his brave and skillful companions, every difficulty was met and conquered."

"He has earned the title of 'knight of the air, the ice and the snow,'" declares the ALBANY EVENING NEWS, with the tribute that "Byrd and his companions made the grade, and they will be given full honor through all time." The ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH points out that "it was an infinitely greater achievement than his North Pole flight, for the farthest north point is in a frozen sea, while the South Pole is in a plateau 10,000 feet high, with jagged mountains much higher to menace the daring aviator." The HOUSTON CHRONICLE exclaims: "Gallant figures, Byrd and his friends of high adventure, pressing chilled faces against the cabin windows of their sky cruiser, looking out over the cold land which lies on the roof of the world, make over their fellow in country uninhabited by human or beast."

"It was as if these four men of the 20th Century," suggests the NEW YORK EVENING POST, "had been thrown back into the Ice Age. To them, from on high, was given a sight of earth as it must have looked before the new world, with its green fields, mist and storm; eternal cold; hopeless, inhuman conditions such as the moon or Mars may hold today; these were the things revealed to them as their plane thumped its steepest journey." The ASHEVILLE TIMES remarks that "such leaders as Byrd in all the ages have lifted the human spirit above the ordinary levels of initiative, and filled the souls of men with insatiable hunger for great deeds in all the fields of human enterprise."

"No romance left in life?" asks the PORT WYMAN NEWS-SENTINEL. "Oh, sure, what can you be thinking of? A leak in the gas tank—a loss of fuel intended for the return trip—a forced landing. Romance? Adventure? Isn't it there? A frozen magnet—quick repairs all around—engines warmed up to go on. No adventure there? Your children and your grandchildren will tell you different. For romance is not merely something to paint at full length people's woodings. It is a brilliant twilight-softened borderland between things hoped for and things achieved. Or, as the dictionary styles it, 'a blending of the heroic, the marvelous, the mysterious and the imaginative action.'"

"Others may wrangle over whether the lands explored by Byrd belong to France, or the United States, or England, or the Scandinavian countries," says the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL, "but none can argue about the glory of the adventure itself, nor about the double crown of fame to which Byrd is now entitled as the only man who has ever flown over both the North Pole and the South Pole." The WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE states that "there is much to marvel at and much to admire in Commander Byrd's enterprise"; that "plenty of endurance and plenty of courage—both in uncommon measure—are essential"; and that paper concludes: "The self-denial involved is enough to stagger and turn back the big majority of us." The ASBURY PARK EVENING PRESS thinks that "in its spectacular qualities the flight apparently has no equal."

"Instead of having been lost to civilization for weeks and months," comments the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, "Explorer Byrd turned up in the morning papers with an expedition completed." The COLUMBIA STATE also emphasizes the fact that "such world-shaking events were formerly weeks or months in becoming known," while the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL asserts that "the success of Commander Byrd is impressive testimony of the capabilities of the airplane," and the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS sees interest in the expedition "because it has not been out of touch with civilization except for short intervals since it started."

"Byrd is a pioneer, not in the old sense of breaking new ground," advises the SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN, "but in the new sense of applying modern methods and resources to old problems," and that paper calls it "perhaps the most notable example of organized exploration that the world has seen." The CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST points to the outstanding characteristics of the enterprise: "How far exploration has been advanced by the inventions of the past 25 years is illustrated by the fact that Commander Byrd made the flight to and returned from the South Pole within less than 24 hours, and was in communication with New York at every stage of the voyage. Very different this from the terrific toll of Amundsen's march to the South Pole and the long time that elapsed after his return, before news of the achievement reached civilization."

"Three things, it seems to us," says the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, "stand out as pre-eminent features of this flight aside from the exhibition of high adventure on the part of those who participated in it. It was a supreme achievement of aviation, it was a triumph of thoroughness of preparation, and it was no less a supreme achievement of radio." The KANSAS CITY TIMES holds that "in the hands of Commander Byrd and his associates, the airplane has become an instrument of almost unlimited promise for explorations in the polar regions and for long journeys elsewhere about the globe."

"What can Commander Byrd do next that will not be an anti-climax to what he already has accomplished?" asks the OGDEN (UTAH) STANDARD-EXAMINER, while the ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS, with the tribute that "he has never failed to accomplish what he set out to accomplish," adds that "as a combination of reliability, common sense, bravery and a power for human progress, he occupies a unique position."

The PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE lauds "the Byrd courage" as proverbial. Each Of Four Men Get Deer

Dr. C. B. Hunt, Joe Preisel, Harry Flinner and C. R. Kelley Have Luck In Cameron County

Extraordinary luck was encountered by Charles R. Kelley, Dr. C. B. Hunt, Joseph Preisel, and Officer Harry Flinner of this city, in a big game hunting trip in Cameron county. Four big bucks were shot by the men, three of the deer being eight pointers and one a three pointer. The men left last Saturday, at midnight, and arrived at their destination Sunday. The deer were shot December 3, 4 and 5. They report game as being very plentiful. The woods are thick with hunters, they say, and several accidents of serious nature occurred while the local men were up there.

Sunday, according to Mr. Kelley, the temperature was 16 below zero. The men traveled and lived in a huge "house on wheels" and were able to cook and sleep in the automobile.

Good Gains In Stock Prices

U. S. Steel Jumps 11 Points For Day's Session To 183

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—A wild rush to buy United States Steel stock near the close of the short session of the stock market today resulted in a speedy run-up of the stock to 183, a gain of 11 points for the session and 20 points since the close of last week.

Bulls in the stock market circulated new rumors about the prospective split-up in steel shares, with a juicy stock dividend for the present stockholders. Once again the bears were caught in a trap, and with new buyers crowding the market on all sides, "big steel" was at a premium. With the tape trailing the market nearly an hour at the close, the bulletins from the stock exchange floor announced "183 bid for steel," while the ticker tapped out a price of 173.4.

American and Foreign Power forged ahead to 101½ for a new gain of 8 points; International Tel and Tel jumped 7 points and Western Union 20. As trading rolled up a volume of 3,000,000 shares for the two-hour session, this was slightly in excess of the turnover of the first three-hour session of the week, motor stocks were firm, but coppers and rails were inactive and steady.

Fair Association Names Officers

Also Hears Reports Good Progress Being Made In Stock Sales

Already $10,000 has been pledged for the sale of stock to liquidate the indebtedness of the New Castle Fair Association, it was reported at a meeting of the new board of directors of the New Castle Agricultural Association Friday evening in the association office on Croton avenue.

Only three or four thousand dollars remain to be raised, according to the secretary, W. B. Rogers. The main purpose of Friday evening's meeting was for organization of the new directors, who were elected at the annual meeting of the fair association a week ago.

New officers were elected by the directors Friday evening. F. F. Forbes, R. D. 4, was elected president; T. J. McCullough, vice president; J. L. Burton, treasurer, and W. B. Rogers, secretary.

J. L. Burton and W. B. Rogers held the same offices last year. J. W. Hartwell was president and F. F. Forbes was vice president.

Friday, Dec. 13th, another meeting of the new directors will take place.

Planes Damaged In Alaska, Reported

Two Fliers Attempting To Take-off In Search Of Eielson Crack-Up Planes

(International News Service)

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Dec. 7.—While attempting to take off on a field covered with drifted snow, airplanes piloted by Joe Crosson and Pilot Dorbandt met with mishaps at Teller, according to word received here today.

Held up by two weeks of stormy weather, the airmen attempted to get away to search for Carl Ben Eielson and his machine, which disappeared last month while flying to the aid of the ice-bound steamer Manuk.

The planes were chopped out of the snow and ice yesterday, and a few minutes later Crosson's machine while attempting to go aloft, bent an axle and loosened supporting wires. Dorbandt "cracked up" while trying to get into the air, but he was uninjured.

Crosson is expected to attempt another take-off as soon as his ship is repaired. A runaway is now being built at Fairbanks for two relief planes.

youngful Republican from North Dakota.

Threat Can't Stop Him.

"I have just read the papers," the governor said, "and I have been shown a statement by a senator better known for his voice than his statesmanship that he proposes to oppose anything the governor of Pennsylvania does."

"Well, all I say to that senator is that he reminds me of a good deal of an Antelope talking to a lot of jumbo elephants. I don't want to belittle the states that have small population and representation out of proportion to their numbers and interest in government, but I want to say to you, and many of you know I would fall in my duty as governor of this great state of Pennsylvania if I allowed a threat from any source by any United States senators, or whoever may be outside of Pennsylvania to influence me in the selection of a United States senator."

The action of the senate in barring Vane should give all Americans occasion to pause and consider," according to Fisher.

"The senate's arbitrary rejection of Vane sets a precedent that is dangerous," he said. "What will be the end when the senate resolves upon arrogating to itself the states power to choose senators by the lawful exercise of the people's will?"

When Bullets Fail; Man Tackles Deer

By this time, news of deer being killed by local people is quite ordinary. But here is a new one told around town.

Brad Walker, of South New Castle Boro, didn't succeed in getting his buck with bullets, so he ran after the animal which was slightly wounded, tackled it "Tommy Harper Style," stuck a knife into the animal and as a result, he has a very fine specimen of deer.

It all sounds a little "fishy" but he has the deer, and there are witnesses to the remarkable human vs. animal fight. It all happened in the Laurel Run district in Clearfield county.

Cooper Attends 24th Stock Show In Chicago Yards

Well Known Scott Township Stockman Only Misses Six Sessions In 30 Years

(International News Service)

Thomas Cooper of Scott township and Wylie Brewster of North Beaver township have returned from Chicago, where they attended the annual stock show. Mr. Cooper says that the show was one of the best he ever attended. The Chicago stock shows have been held for the past 30 years. Mr. Cooper enjoyed the distinction of having attended 24 of the sessions. There are probably few men outside of the immediate district of Chicago with such a long record of attendance.

One of the sensations of the show was a big Angus bull owned by Elliott Brown of Iowa. The bull weighed 950 pounds and was sold for $2.25 a pound, the price received by Mr. Brown being $7,875.50.

A fine flock of lambs owned by Robert McEwen of Ontario averaged 82 pounds each and were sold for 32 cents per pound.

Rector To Discuss Bible On Sunday

In Trinity church, at the corner of North Mill and East Falls streets, the rector will take as his morning topic at 11 o'clock, "The Bible in the hearts of the people." An appeal subject giving opportunity not on for broad treatment, but one which reaches out to the innermost feeling of all. At 7:30 p. m., "The Bible in the Present Age." Have the Scriptures a message for today? Or have the discoveries made in the field of science robbed them of timely interest? What about the critical study of "the good book?" These are questions often discussed in current books and magazines, there are many, confusing and confused voices, are there any assured results? Is there a basis from which a well reading thinking man of today can build a scheme of life?

If he is so stupid that he can't realize how insignificant he is compared with the world's useful men, the condition is called "swellhead." Highways forty feet wide won't help much. They'll just make buses thirty feet wide.

Responses Received In Home Lighting Project

Several responses have already been received at the Chamber of Commerce in the Christmas home lighting contest, sponsored by the Woman's club, and indications point to one of the keenest competitions that has ever been staged here. New Castle should be a blaze of glorious lights in the residence section as well as the business section, according to the interest being shown. Many splendid effects have been achieved by local residents in past years in the Christmas lighting contest, and it has been extremely difficult for the judges to pick the winners. This year promises to be no exception. In order to be eligible for prizes, residents of the city must be enrolled. The coupon below will appear daily in The News until Christmas time, and all that will be necessary for those who desire to compete, will be to clip the coupon and mail it to the offices of the Chamber of Commerce. Judging will take place between December 25 and January 1. Every resident of the city is eligible to compete.

Chinese-American Seeking Divorce

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 7.—Because his wife, whom he brought here from China seven years ago, has become so thoroughly "Americanized" that she stayed out late at nights and finally left him to seek a career, Hong Quong of Pittsburgh has filed a libel for divorce against Lee Shee Quong.

Hong Quong says that he does not know where his wife is but that she may have gone to Hollywood to appear in motion pictures.

The case is believed to be the first in this part of the state in which a Chinese has applied for divorce.

Payments Due To Community Chest

Statements have been mailed to New Castle citizens who contributed to the New Castle Community Chest apprising them of the fact that payments to the Chest are now due and payable at the Union Trust Co. This is the first quarterly installment and the Chest directors are hopeful that all contributors will meet their first payment in such a due. This will make it easier to meet the succeeding payments and enable the Chest to clear up the deficit of last year.

It is very difficult to discover, by its appearance, how old a Lincoln is. Lincoln believes in making automobiles so beautiful that they are always modern — so durable that they simply won't wear out. The age of a Lincoln is no one's concern—least of all its owner's. On the boulevards a Lincoln of last season and the newest model share honors equally with Lincolns years older than either.

So fine is this car that a year or so of use does not perceptibly detract from any of its splendid qualities. Lincoln owners are often men who can, and do, provide the best professional care for their cars. Sometimes such well-kept cars are available at very attractive prices from Lincoln dealers. The wisdom of investing in such a motor car is quite evident, and shrewd buyers are quick to take advantage of the opportunity.

A few such Lincolns are now to be seen on our floor. Every one is in perfect mechanical condition. We are always glad to demonstrate them to you, without the slightest obligation. Drop in today.

Prayer In Congress

The Chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer.

The Lord God give us hope, faith, and purpose to so live that each of us shall be a blessing to our fellow men. Bless every act that starts a new influence for Thee and for our country. We ask Thee to teach us that wisdom that shall enable us to be useful for truth, for honor, for goodness, for fidelity, and for genuine manliness. Redeem our land from self-indulgence and from destructive materialism, and bring it into the full light and knowledge of that truth that shall make it permanently free and strong. Bless us this day with that quietude and tranquility of spirit that cometh from the infinite heart of the Father of us all—through Christ, our Savior, Amen.

Great Host At Church Dinner

Plaingrove Folks Gather For Community Event On Friday Night

Last night at the Plaingrove United Presbyterian church beyond Harlansburg, there was a space shortage caused by the chicken dinner which was served in the basement of the church.

It was a mighty good chance to trade a 50-cent piece for a meal that would tickle the most artistic palate. You have heard a table groan; well, last night the poor overworked boards actually cried out loud.

The supper started off with a good big plate of creamed chicken, with potatoes and gravy, right beside this a dish of peas and carrots clamored for attention. Salad was in order also, and within reach a lot of those old-fashioned mustard pickles, and all this time a big piece of apple pie sat smiling up so temptingly. And oh, yes, when they passed the butter, not a little piece like a sample of radium, they handed over a pound or so, and if anyone took half nobody offered any objections.

Last night was the first attempt of this kind of an affair out there, and it was a real success, just like a street car, when one person got up from the table two were waiting to take his place.

New York—Kentucky, Pennsylvania Lead In Prohibition Violations

Georgia, Florida And Maryland Lead In Number Of Moonshine Stills

Federal Prohibition Army At End Of Year Shown To Number Some 4,664

By ROBERT S. THORNBURG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Georgia, Florida and Maryland were the country's leading moonshine states, while prohibition law violations were most frequent in New York, Kentucky, and Pennsylvania, judging from statistics contained in the annual report of Commissioner James M. Doran, made public today.

Old fashioned "mountain dew," so-called because of its sparkling coolness, formed the principal output of the Georgia stills, of which 1,934 were seized during the year.

Many Stills In Florida
The Everglades of Florida prove an excellent haven for stills, which had a varied output of rum, rye and corn much of which probably was converted into genuine imported stuff for the winter tourists. Nevertheless federal agents captured 953 stills in that state.

In Maryland, where has flashed up in recent years a flourishing rye industry, much of the output of which is shunted over to the National Capital, 773 stills were picked off by "revenuers."

The Porto Rico rum makers had a tough year and lost 880 stills. Seizures in other leading states included Illinois 668, New York 337, North Carolina 326 and Pennsylvania 346.

For prohibition violations 8,265 persons were arrested in New York, with 3,993 in Kentucky, 3,352 in Illinois, 3,674 in Pennsylvania and 3,487 in Texas.

Narcotic Cases Heavy
Doran's report disclosed that during the year there were 5,193 convictions under the narcotic act, for which the courts imposed sentences aggregating 11,141 years and assessed fines of $218,783.

Among persons registered under the law 1,318 cases were pending at the beginning of the year, while 3,754 new violations developed. Of this group 149 were convicted, 9 acquitted, 1,016 submitted suitable offers in compromise, 857 cases were dropped and 1,723 were pending at the end of the year.

Of 9,396 cases pending against non-registered persons 5,037 were convicted, 111 acquitted, 20 compromised, 1,392 cases dropped and the remainder left pending at the end of the year.

"Smuggling and subsequent illegal selling of narcotics continue to constitute the principal enforcement problem," Doran said. "While the illicit drug traffic on the whole appeared to be on the decrease smugglers and dealers seem to have become more expert in their operations so that greater difficulty is experienced in making cases against them."

Eliminate Untrained
A general campaign on instruction for dry agents has eliminated most of the untrained officers, according to Doran. He declared untrained men no longer are sent out with general instructions to "enforce the law." Agents have been specifically advised regarding the rights of citizens.

Six prohibition agents were killed and 94 injured "in the line of duty" during the year ending June 30. Deaths occurred in the District of Columbia, Indiana, Maryland, New York, Texas and Washington.

Through the cooperation of foreign governments the number of foreign vessels suspected of engaging in the rum traffic has been reduced from 250 to 103, according to the report.

The division investigating charges of serious nature against employees of the bureau looked into 341 cases, of which 278 were closed. The report did not show that action was taken.

The prohibition "army" at the end of the year numbered 4,664 permanent and 35 temporary employees, an increase of 268 "permanents" during the 12 months.

Pleas Are Entered; Sentences Passed
Two Prisoners Are Given Terms To Western Penitentiary At Court Today

Following findings of the grand jury, which convened this week, a number of prisoners indicted decided not to stand trial and their pleas were presented to Judges Hildebrand and Chambers by District Attorney J. Elder Bryan this morning. Sentences were passed as follows:

Harry Lent, indicted on five charges for passing fraudulent checks, was sentenced to not less than two nor more than four years to the Western penitentiary, which means that the total time to be served will be from two to four years.

James Wall, convicted of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, was sentenced to three months to the county jail.

William Ellis, on a charge of possessing liquor, was paroled upon the payment of a fine of $500 and costs. This case was up at a former term. Ellis contended that the alleged liquor was vinegar, but the commonwealth maintained that it was not.

Jesse Arridow, a Mexican, entered a plea to felonious rape. As he is only 18 years old, he was sent to the Pennsylvania training school until he is 21.

Frank Williams, possessing liquor, $100 fine and costs and three months to county jail.

Ed. Harris, alias Ed. Davis, and Frank Nye, alias Penny O'Brien, entering a building with intent to commit a felony, not less than two nor more than four years to the Western penitentiary.

Interest Shown In Proposal To Improve Rivers

Heads Of Various Organizations Of Similar Character Commend Movement

AID IS OFFERED IN LOCAL PROJECT

Recent announcement of the formation of an association which will sponsor as its objective, a project to canalize the channels of the Beaver, Connoquessing, Shenango and Mahoning rivers as a tie-up of the Ohio canal with the great Mississippi Inland Waterway development, which President Hoover has expressed himself as being desirous of seeing accomplished within the next five years, has evoked widespread interest and comment.

W. C. Culkins, executive secretary of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the Ohio River Improvement Association, which has been in existence for the past thirty-five years, writes, "The connection between Youngstown and the Ohio river is of vital importance and I feel that our Association should take a particular interest in its progress."

Lachlan Macleay, secretary of the Mississippi Valley Association, writes, "I will be looking forward to talking over this whole matter with you. Any engineering data that you can send us will be very welcome, as any reports, maps or estimates that have been made on the Warren, Youngstown, New Castle, Beaver, Ohio river portion of the canal. We want to know all we can about this project."

Donald T. Wright, editor of the Waterways Journal and former Oil City, Pa., resident has expressed himself as being greatly interested in being advised about the details of the organization which has been effected and its undertaking. Ernest M. Merrill, Charleston, W. Va., head of the great Kanawha Valley Improvement Association, says, "As one of the vice-presidents of the Ohio Valley association, I am glad to help out the tributaries in any way I can. As a river enthusiast, I am at your service. You have three fundamentals to work out. The first is your project; the second is your organization; and the third is your program."

A communication from Major J. J. Loving, resident member of the U. S. Army Engineers for River and Harbors at Washington, D. C., in commenting upon waterway surveys which have been made in the past in this state says, "Consideration was not given to the economic advisability of providing a waterway over that section of the route between Warren, Youngstown, New Castle and Beaver and the Ohio river."

Their resolution follows: To the Chamber of Commerce of New Castle and to all those to whom it may concern:

Whereas, being aware of the effort to promote better facilities for freight transportation by improving our waterways and appreciating the great economic value of such a movement and furthermore, being actively interested in this project as agriculturists.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

INVENTORY

In a book by Richard Lynch, called "Mind Makes Men Giants," one reads that "the candidate for success in life must first make an inventory of his assets and a list of his liabilities. The liabilities consist of his tendencies and habits. These are the weeds in the garden and must receive immediate attention with a view to eradication."

It is a thought worth our attention. We waste much time trying to get somewhere and be somebody because we do not make an inventory of our strong and weak points. We do not approach our personal problems and attack their solution with as much simplicity, understanding and sense as we give to problems which lie outside ourselves.

HABIT

Words without measure have been written about habit. Despite all that has been said or written by the psychologists we have a one-sided view of it. The average young person today comes up with a kind of vague fear of habit. He has been told a hundred times not to do this, that or the other thing lest he form a habit which may destroy him.

That is the negative side of habit, the wrong approach. Habit is a constructive thing. The formation of habit is one of the most useful functions of the brain and nervous system. By the wise formation of habits we can take care of an immeasurable number of duties automatically. Habits can carry us along, do our work for us, keep us going, build us up, bring success. Hard work, study, good hours, tranquility of mind, and most of the positive virtues in the human being can be acquired by habit. Once acquired they carry us on with little struggle on our part.

That is the affirmative side of habit. Children shouldn't be brought up to fear habit. They should seek it and make it a servant.

WE ARE FEARFUL

We are like children, no matter how apparently grown up we are. We fear the crash of the stock market and hide our heads like timid folks in a heavy thunder storm. We fear—fear for business, employment, prosperity. The president of the American Bankers' association said the other day, and said truly: "American business does not die with the price of a speculative bubble."

The president, wisely summarizing the plans and expectations of business men from all over America, finds great expansion in prospect. Wages will stay up. Employment in many lines will increase. We have had a shock but we have learned something. We have learned that the average American does not live by speculation.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Hear ye, hear ye, hear ye!

Husbands are to be legally protected against the extravagance of wives!

The appellate court in Washington has ruled that a certain Congressman, whose wife bought herself some swell furs and charged them to him, doesn't have to pay the bill. What's more, no husband within that court's jurisdiction need pay the bills for an extravagant wife who spends more than her allowance, provided her husband gives her one.

This is going to be a man's Christmas in Washington. The court holds that the stores should find out if the husband will stand for the extravagance before they deliver the goods. If they don't it's their bad luck.

It's a great tip to merchants. And as for the ladies, it's certainly going to cramp their style.

It reminds one of the old days when women used to feed husband sweet potato pie and hot biscuits and then bring his slippers and hand him the evening paper. And then just when he thought he was the King of Siam, she asked him if he thought he could possibly afford a nice fur coat for a wife who needed it terribly!

The reason it reminds one of those old days is that it's so awfully different.

Now, if the friendly court would find some way to protect the merchants, from women who buy on a charge account, take flimsy gowns home and wear them and return them next day, everybody—except the women—would be happy. The powder and rouge is always explainable. She tried the gown on and got it daubed.

The reason merchants accept that explanation is that every year it costs them thousands of dollars to keep in good condition the dresses they are trying to sell. Women trying them on, daub them with red grease paint powder and eye brow black, and the merchant can only smile sweetly and say: "Madame the customer is always right." (What he thinks couldn't be printed in a family newspaper.)

If they washed their faces before they tried on gowns they wouldn't know how they would look normally. But it would lower the cost of dresses.

The Washington decision looks as if women were getting what used to be called "their come-uppings." The grand finale probably will show all women working to pay for all they wear. Then they will wear even less than they do now. The lace and chiffon market would turn out all the lights if women had to earn all the money spent on flimsies.

And if the girls had to pay for their own fur coats—it would be Armistice Day in the animal kingdom.

(But if I'm wrong—write me.)

LAWRENCE SAVINGS AND TRUST COMPANY

Convicts Are Kept Busy Making License Tags For 1,750,000 Cars In State

Many people of New Castle, who are sending for their 1930 auto license tags will be interested to know of the labor which is necessary in order to manufacture the enormous number of plates.

Auto tags for 1,750,000 cars in Pennsylvania, were made by convicts in Western State penitentiary, at Pittsburgh, this year, according to an issue of "The Echo," a monthly newspaper written by inmates of the penitentiary.

The work requires special machinery and the labor of many men. The work of making automobile licenses began in Western State penitentiary in 1924. Since 1916, previous to that, tags were made at Huntingdon reformatory.

The building where the work is done, is divided into the major sections to house the press room, the coating room and the shipping room respectively.

Sheet steel is delivered in carload lots on the railroad siding just outside the institution. It is hauled by truck from the cars and stored in the press room. The Pennsylvania Department of Highways insists on quality in every material and operation involved in the making of these auto tags. Their specifications for these tags are detailed and rigid, and careful checks of all materials furnished and all manufacturing operations are constantly made.

The steel goes first to the shears. Three shears are now in use in the press room. Each shear is operated by two men who cut the steel into blanks 6 inches by 10 inches, 6 inches by 12 inches or 6 inches by 15 inches in size.

Then the plates are taken to another machine where the corners are rounded off, and then to another machine where holes for bolts are perforated.

Then comes the embossing of the blanks. Two embossing operations are necessary on each tag. The first raises the serial numbers on the blank and the second which applies all other raised portions of the finished tag consists of embossing the bead or border around the edge, the letters

PENNA., the numbers indicating the year for which the tag is to be issued, and the two Keystone's indicating the Keystone state, Pennsylvania. The operator of the embossing presses must keep his mind constantly on his work to prevent misnumbering the blanks which he is handling. The two men assigned to each press alternate frequently in operating and helping because of the concentration necessary to successfully do the job.

Much of the machinery in the press room offers the usual hazards of any heavy metal working equipment, according to a description of the machinery, in the prison paper. Guards are provided on all machines in accordance with the requirements of the Department of Labor and Industry and on the rimming presses, which are particularly dangerous, special safety guards are installed. This guard is attached to the ram or moving head of the press and, through a system of cables running in piping, attached to a wristlet worn by the operator, his hands are both automatically pulled out from under the ram of the press as it descends if he fails to draw them out through any momentary inattention.

The average output of the press room is eight thousand sets or pairs of tags per day.

Then the tags go to the coating room, after which they are baked about 75 minutes in about 200 degrees of heat. The tags are completed when they emerge from this third baking but they must still be inspected, verified, packed and shipped.

Youth, 16, Shoots Big 12 Point Buck In Forest County

Thomas West, Jr., And Three Brothers Drag Buck Seven Miles To Their Camp

Thomas West Jr., aged 16 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. West of McCaslin, was one of the fortunate hunters who went to Forest county this week. Thomas shot a 12-point buck, which tipped the beam at a little over 200 pounds. The buck was shot through the heart by the youthful hunter at a distance of about 60 yards.

With Thomas on the hunting tour were his three brothers, William and Jack, of McCaslin, and Henry, of Pittsburgh. They had scattered out as they traversed the forest, but none of them were in sight of Thomas when he shot the buck.

And it was a good thing that Thomas was not alone, for the buck had to be dragged seven miles through the mountains to their stopping place. All four were pretty well played out by the time they reached camp.

One of the game wardens informed them that the buck was one of the largest that has been shot in years.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Stuttering Disappears If Ignored

Two years ago, Little Stephen could not talk. He could only grunt or make some sounds and gestures when he wanted something or attempted to express his feelings. Now he can talk. He uses several hundred words. Stephen has a lot to say and it is very interesting and important to him. But he finds it hard to use the words he knows as others use them or to use them so as always to be understood.

Overflowing with enthusiasm, Stephen's interests and the ideas which he wishes to express outrun his speech machinery. Therefore Stephen stutters. About all children stammer, some for several years after they begin to talk.

We parents smile and laugh at little children when their speech sounds strange to us. Nevertheless their made no effort to be funny; neither can they see that anything amusing had been said. So they are very uncomfortable, for they guess that we are making fun of them. What fears these little folks must suffer at such moments. When you and I see others smile at us without knowing why we suffer terribly.

Poor little Stephen's fears or ridicule, and fears that what he says will not be heard, help make expression harder for him. Fears, therefore, make him stutter more.

This evening at the dinner table Stephen stammered more than usual. He had not slept in the afternoon and he was tired. Each time he spoke all the others of the family turned their eyes on him. "Don't try to talk so fast," father said repeatedly, and mother four times at the table made the little fellow, "stop and go slowly." Before the dinner hour was ended Stephen stuttered worse. The parents were distressed; and then the world to Stephen was all steeped in gloom.

To quote from Dr. Smiley Blanton of Vassar College, an eminent speech specialist, writing in the May issue of Babyhood:

"Parents should absolutely ignore the child's stuttering when it occurs. They should not ask him to repeat sentences when he hesitates and should not seem distressed or irritated when the child becomes blocked or inhibited. Even slight changes of expressions of the face of parents or nurse are noticed by the stuttering child."

When little children stutter do not stare at them nor let them know you notice that they stammer. Give them appropriate attention and show genuine appreciation of the things they say. Be courteous. Be patient. Never let them fear that you will wander from their cherished tale. Don't laugh first. Be very sympathetic.

A certain doctor has said that cod liver oil has done more to correct and prevent stutter and stammering in children than have speech experts. Of course, since to build the child up physically is to reduce nervous disorders as a rule and, therefore, to make expression by him more nearly normal.

Be sure the child has ample rest and quiet and that he is not overstimulated. Try hard to avoid in him all frights and fears and help him overcome those fears he has. Do all you can to make the child as comfortable as possible. Under favorable conditions of this sort stuttering in little children will almost always disappear. Next: Teaching Bathroom Habits.

Bo Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

(By Central Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—For two and a half years Christine Ecklund, musical comedy principal, has occupied the same dressing room in the Chantier theater. She was in both "Good News" and "Follow Through". She did not even take her trunk and make-up apparatus out of the theater when "Follow Through" succeeded "Good News".
This is a Broadway record.

OBLIGING POLICE COMMISSIONER

The ubiquitous Grover Whalen, Mayor Walker's best little Police Commissioner, and press agent for distracting attention from New York crime, by getting citizens into their theater seats at 8:45 at the expense of citizens who have no seats at all, appeared in a new movie role the other night.

The Warner Brothers had a big night on Broadway. They were opening their "Show of Shows" at the Winter Garden and also they were opening the world's biggest electric sign on the crest of the new playhouse the organization is building opposite the Winter Garden.

They wanted Thomas Edison to press a button and start the sign going. Thomas was otherwise engaged.

As one Warner Brother said to another Warner Brother: "Goodness knows, we use enough of his current in front of our theaters. He ought to be willing to come 'round and help us out!"

"Let's get Grover Whalen," suggested the other Warner Brother. "That's a great idea," said the Original Warner Brother. "He won't decline. He never declines anything; and we won't have to go to the trouble of putting in a button for him to press. We can fake one."

Sure enough, on the big night Grover appeared with a large army of police, mounted, on foot and on motorcycles. Standing in front of the Winter Garden Grover pulled a cord which was supposed to connect electrically with the sign across the street. It didn't connect, but when Grover pulled the cord one of his cops blew two blasts on a whistle. That was a signal to an electrician atop the new building to pull a switch, and the sign blazed forth.

Then Grover spoke into a mike a few kind words about the Warner Brothers, written by one of their prize agents. A small army of photographers, working under the same auspices, took hundreds of pictures, and, taken by and large, it was an illuminating night.

Illusion, after all, is the stock in trade of Tammany Town. Grover Whalen is the first police commissioner here to realize that and cash in on it.

ALWAYS JOURNEY APART
Leave the movies and the commissioner for a moment and consider the Shuberts, who have developed almost a civic conscience so far as their organization is concerned. This was manifested the other day when the two brothers journeyed to Atlantic City to witness the try-out of one of their new productions.

Although they could have taken the same train to the delightful resort which theatrical managers do their best to spoil by first exhibiting their new productions there, Lee took one train and Jake another.

Then it was learned that the brothers, if possible, never travel on the same train. Sometimes when it has been absolutely necessary for them to violate this rule they use different Pullmans. Their organization is so peculiarly pivoted upon a centralized control exercised by the pair that they divide the hazards of travel by journeying apart. The same principle is applied to any sort of vehicular journeying.

THE BUSY EDDIE
Eddie Cantor's dressing room, when he is playing on Broadway, is a cross between a social center and a business office. He has a phone in stalled and one or two stenographers at hand to assist him in his business transactions with producers, song writers, men seeking endorsements, real estate agents, playwrights, librettists, composers and the army of the rag-tag that spend their lives wallowing in the wake of celebrities.

Recently a stage hand happened to drift in on some errand and he and Cantor got talking. One word led to another and the stage hand remarked in passing that he had difficulty in saving any of his wage scale.

"I'll tell you how I got my start," said Eddie. "I adopted the budget system, you know, dividing my money into savings, investments, recreations, living expenses."

And he went on for ten of the valuable minutes which he has no difficulty in disposing of for much money to instruct the humble stage hand in the gentle art of budgeting his income.

And pretty soon, with the wage scale his union exacts, ye humble stage hand will be saving—almost as much as Eddie Cantor!

The Story is This:—

Mrs. A. buys an article for $75.00 on "installments" payable monthly, because it is so "easy" to pay that way, having a year to pay for it.

Mrs. B. prefers to pay cash and instead of buying now opens an account at the DOLLAR SAVINGS ASSOCIATION, paying $1.50 per week for 50 weeks and gets interest on her money.

She then takes her check which she gets at the end of the 50 weeks and makes her purchase, and because she pays cash she gets a discount of $7.50.

This saving plus the interest on her savings nets her over 15% interest.

Result—Thrifty Mrs. B. has $8.35 extra to spend while Mrs. A. has none.

Mickie Salmen Wins From Buck McTiernan

McTiernan Down Three Times In Third Round

McTiernan's Manager Leaps Into Ring To Save Protegee From "Kayo"

ACTION DISQUALIFIES PITTSBURGHER BOXER

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 7.—Mickie Salmen, 153½, New Castle, last night won from Buck McTiernan, 152½, Pittsburgh, in the third round of a bout scheduled to go 10 rounds at Moose Temple, Pittsburgh last night. Salmen had McTiernan down for the third time when McTiernan's manager leaped into the ring, thereby committing a foul and which prevented Salmen from knocking out McTiernan.

There is no question but that had McTiernan's manager, acting as chief adviser not jumped into the ring but Salmen would have scored a knockout as the Pittsburgher had taken an unmerciful beating. Approximately a year ago McTiernan knocked out Salmen in the same ring.

Realizing that he had everything to gain Salmen pushed the battle as soon as the bell rang and rushed McTiernan to the ropes several times and on as many occasions landed to the head and body with right and left. Blows to the heart also slowed up the Pittsburgh pugilist hope.

Floors McTiernan
Salmen forced the fighting in the second and presented a diversified attack and though he ran into rights kept punching all the time. He shifted his assault from the head to the body and at the end of the second Buck was fighting defensively.

Realizing that he had had the best of the first two rounds Salmen sped up in the third and landed left to the face that made McTiernan fight defensively. As Buck rushed a straight left landed to the head and McTiernan went down.

He rested on a knee while Referee Robinson counted nine. He was on his feet only 10 seconds when he was floored again. McTiernan laid over the lower rope. He was scarcely able to regain his feet and after a few seconds he was sent down the third time with a body blow.

Before Referee Robinson could commence to count Bunny Buntack, manager and chief adviser for McTiernan leaped into the ring thereby committing a foul and automatically disqualifying his man. He tried to claim a foul which was not allowed. The action merely tended to save McTiernan from a knockout.

During the past few days various writers have been writing the name of one of New Castle's leading fistic exploiters as Mickie Solomon, Solmen and Salmen. The writer, once having been informed that it was not Solomon nor Solmen, has put the correct spelling to the name and that is "Salmen", pronounced as "Solman."

Mickie achieved something worthwhile pugilistically last night when he won from Buck McTiernan and despite the action of Buck's manager, who leaped into the ring, which automatically disqualified McTiernan, there is no one who can possibly deny that Salmen is entitled to be called the better fighter, according to all reports.

He had forced the bout from the time it started until he had McTiernan down for the third time, half unconscious. Realizing that Salmen was to get credit for a knockout, which he apparently had brought about the manager used an old trick and leaped into the ring, thereby committing a foul.

It is peculiar but nevertheless true that Mickie has fought his best bouts away from home. He fought Johnny Carey here before he had recovered from a knockout delivered by McTiernan. He was sore but went through with the contest. He met Chuck Zel-nack but Zel-nack's style made Mickie look bad.

And this is often the case. Take a boxer with an unpleasing style and it will tend to make a better boxer look bad. In other words it takes some of the lustre from his class and this was true, Mickie is rangy, boxes with his fairly well and thinks fast. It is hoped that last night's win is his real beginning.

McTiernan was no world beater and he was far from the top but the fact he had scored one win over Salmen gave Pittsburgh an incentive to cheer for him. The defeat, rather than hurt Salmen's nerve, acted as a spur and he determined to go after McTiernan all the more viciously and success was the result.

George Perotta, former middleweight of this city, has returned from Toledo, where he participated in a bout with Don Lewis. Perotta won from Lewis. He says he has not given up the gloves and as soon as a boil leaves one of his knees he will continue training.

Perotta says there is no "kidding". He claims he has been working. "I kidded myself for a long time. I've got a few 'socks' left and my legs are all right. I'm going to show some of the boys that the 'Old Boy' can still take and give and will try and knock out some of the younger boys hereabouts," he remarked a few days ago.

There will be no boxing show at Moose Temple on Friday night and it is probable that none will be staged for several weeks. The Christmas shopping season is getting under way and though there are many fans who want to see shows every week industrial conditions here are not such that topnotchers can find enough monetary reward from the crowds which are only fair.

Jimmy Belmont is being groomed as Pittsburgh's new pugilistic hope. Yes, sir, the boy who got his start at Jolly bowl has been matched to fight Joe Cooper, who outpointed McTiernan at Pittsburgh recently. Tommy Freeman knocked out Cooper in a round at Cleveland.

Monday night at Cleveland, Ed Bueck, the Cleveland News will run a Christmas fund boxing show. Johnny Risko meets Ernie Schaaf in the main bout and Em' Rocco battles Mose Boquillon in the semi-final. There will be several other bouts. The show is an annual event and it will go over with a "bang".

Diegel-Farrell Are Finalists

Leo Diegel And Johnny Farrell To Battle It Out For Pro National Title

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 7.—After playing super golf throughout the entire tournament, and capped by a dazzling victory over Walter Hagen in the semi-finals yesterday, Leo Diegel and Johnny Farrell, today will defend his P. G. A. title against Johnny Farrell, former national open champion.

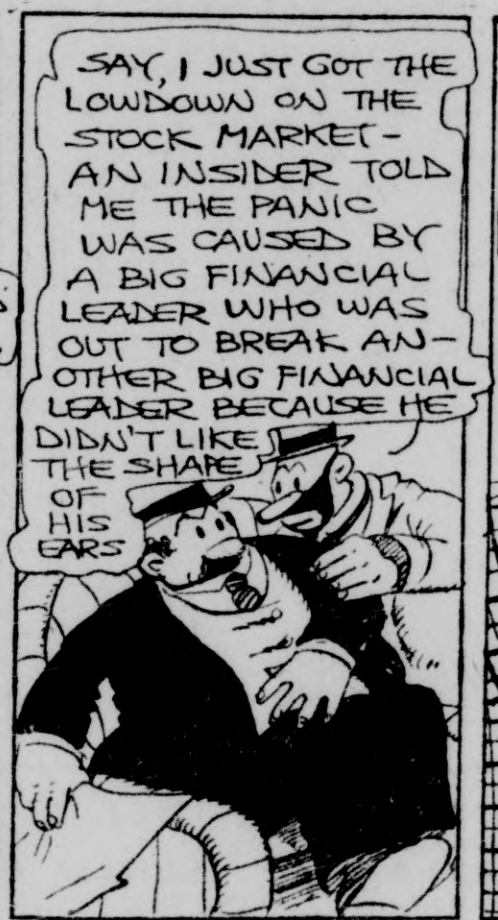

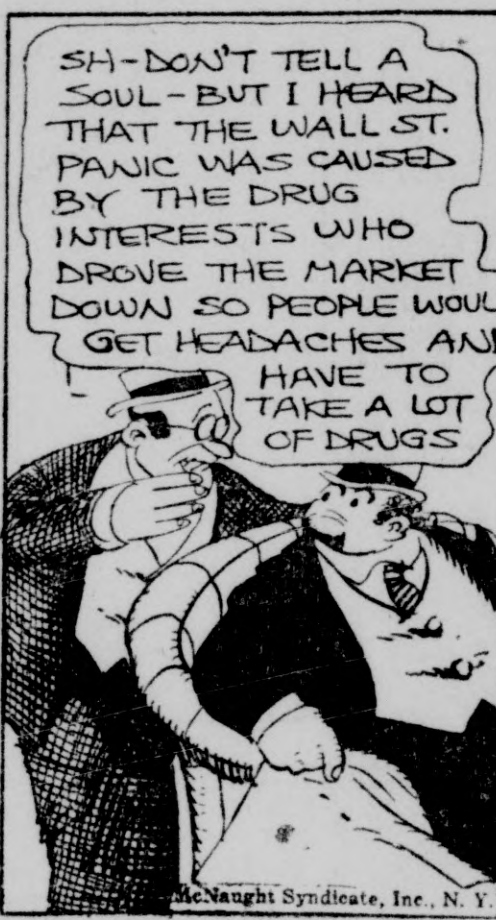

Stroking the first 18 holes in 68, or three under par, Diegel continued to play brilliantly and consistently and won the match, 3 and 2. Meanwhile, Johnny Farrell was having a comparatively easy time with Al Watrous, of Grand Rapids, Mich., winning, 6 and 5.

At least 5,000 fans watched the bitter struggle between Diegel and Hagen at the Hillcrest Country Club course, and they were rewarded with a brand of golf that attained great heights.

Dempsey To Referee Heavyweight Battle

Scott-Von Porat Battle In New York City Will Be Refereed By Jack Dempsey

Fight Fans Fight For Duckets As Announcement Is Made Jack Will Be Official

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—It was Barnum who made the discovery—Mr. Bailey, as usual, being all tied up with the contortionists—that it takes one ring to make a carnival and three rings to make a circus. But even his agile mind never thought that we would live to see the day when people would pay to see a man referee a prize fight. They are going to do it on Monday night.

In fact, they started to do it twenty-four hours ago when announcement was made that Miss Taylor's husband, John Dempsey, probably would be in there calling his shots from mid-ring on the Phil Scott-Otto Von Porat party. Prior to the announcement, the advance sale had been far from bad. It became downright good when the word on John's appointment went forth and began to teach salesmanship in ten easy lessons. No two ways about it, the lad still has them eating contentedly from his hand. It looked like $60,000 show on Thursday; today, everyone knows that it is unlikely to do worse than $70,000 and may climb into the early eighties.

That kind of money isn't barber shop jingles but, then, seventy thousand dollars never before got a three-way ride for its money in boxing before.

Three Principals
Mr. Barnum did it on the circus lots but boxing always ran as a two-man show and a referee figured his night was not ill-spent if they paid him no heed very constantly.

This time, there will be three principals in the ring, thereby increasing the thrill-possibilities by exactly one. These are as follows: A knockout of Scott by Von Porat, a knockout of Von Porat by Scott and Dempsey to counter the man who is knocked.

Frankly, the show is good enough to get by on its own. It has the champion of England in one corner and a fine two-hand hitter in the other. It has Jack Dempsey and possibly a heavyweight title fight waiting for the winner and it has the men whose punch is harder than their chins, a state of affairs that always makes for drama. But, if Dempsey goes in there, too, it can't miss. As far as my memory takes me, it is necessary to go all the way back to Jeff's salad days and the Jack Root-Martin Hart fight to find a parallel situation.

Scott Can't Take It
At that, it doesn't parallel at all in a comparison of the fighters. Scott and Von Porat may not be champions but they are better fighters than Root and Hart, the opinions of professional old timers to the contrary. Scott, in fact, is a first class man up to but not including the chin. He can give it; he can't take it.

However, Schmeling had a chance to give it to him but became selfish and decided to keep it all for himself. If this man Scott is much a chump, I would like to know why they can't get Schmeling into the same ring with him. As matters stand, they have been singularly unable to get Schmeling into the same country with him. As for Von Porat, it is the consensus of expert opinion that Schmeling never will go for a Von Porat match. If he did, he wouldn't be asking for trouble. He would be demanding it.

Jack Dempsey To Referee Bouts

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Jack Dempsey has been officially designated as the referee of the Phil Scott-Otto Von Porat heavyweight bout on Monday night, it was announced Friday by the Madison Square Garden corporation under the auspices of which the fight will be held. Dempsey made formal application for a referee's license at a meeting of the local commission several days ago. His credentials reached him Friday.

Washington School Makes Fine Offer To Coach Phelan

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—James Phelan, coach of Purdue's big ten championship football team this fall, today is considering a tempting offer to become head coach at the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash., to succeed Enoch Bagshaw.

Phelan's offer follows a one month survey by Earl Campbell, graduate manager of athletics at the coast school, in which he has considered coaches throughout the middle west and the east.

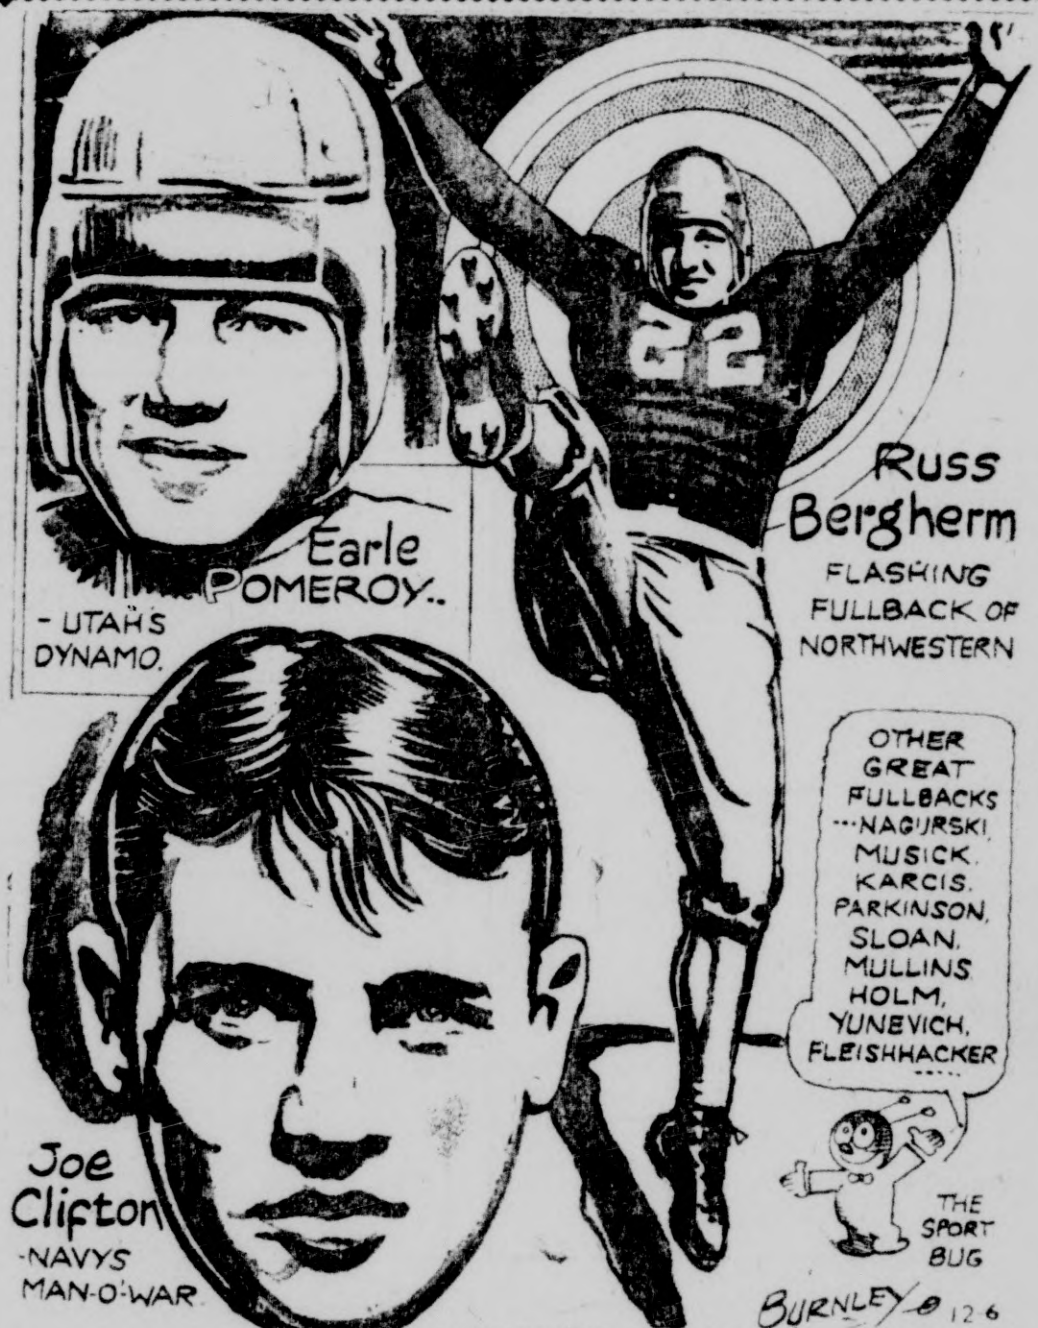

The Purdue mentor is considering a trip to Seattle next week for the purpose of looking over the situation. "I am very much interested in Washington's proposition," Phelan stated here when asked about the offer.

Trojans Prepare For Two Battles

Pitt And Carnegie Tech Both To Meet Southern California This Month On Coast

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 7.—The University of Southern California Trojans today were engaged in preparing for an invasion of Pennsylvania football teams. Next Saturday the Trojans meet Carnegie Tech at Los Angeles, and on New Year's Day they will collide with the University of Pittsburgh at Pasadena, in the annual tournament of roses contest.

Fullback Titans Of 1929

Modern football usually assigns two main duties to the fullback, i. e., he's the team's principal line plunger and, with the roving center, closest to his own line on defense. Generally he is the sturdiest of the backs, because of his employment as the chief hammer in close order, smashing power plays. Where there is a wealth of backfield material, halfbacks and fullbacks are used interchangeably, but, in the main, the fullback is the ace short-gain rusher and line backer-up.

While the majority of 1929 All-American selections are liable to name either "Pug" Parkinson of Pittsburgh, Bronko Nagurski of Minnesota or Yunevich of Purdue, for such chief honors, the Sport Bug pictures here three other stars believed to be on a par with the best of fullback talent. Joe Clifton of the Navy—powerful plunger, sure tackler, superb pass interceptor and splendid punter—is a true wonder, even behind a very ordinary line. Russ Bergherm of Northwestern, is practically in the same category. He took the famed "Bullet" Bruder's place when the latter broke his leg early in the season. To fill in for such a celebrity tends to evoke the most odious of comparisons, but Bergherm played so ably that he is sure to get much All-American mention. Out in the Rockies they're raving over Earle Pomeroy of Utah. Salt Lake City is sure that "while there may be other fullbacks just as good, there are none better than Pulzner in Pomeroy."

Boosters Defeat Oil City Team

New Castle Boosters Top Oil City Howitzer Team 26-10; Baptists Trim Third U. P.

TWO GOOD GAMES AT "Y" FLOOR

The New Castle Boosters won in a walk against the fast Oil City Howitzers, in a floor game at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday night. The final tally was 26 to 10. In the preliminary game the Third U. P. team was upset by the First Baptists 25 to 16.

Both games were interesting and kept a fairly good crowd of spectators excited throughout. In the first game the Baptists held a lead of 10 to 6 at the end of the first half and helped their lead through out the second period. It was the fine work of T. Wallace, B. Wallace and A. Uram that brought victory to the Baptists over a fast Third U. P. aggregation. For the losers the work of McClymonds, McNickle and Space was the best.

Boosters Look Good
The main game started out slow, both teams had difficulty locating the basket, and consequently the score at the end of the first half found the Boosters ahead 9 to 6, in a low scoring half. Kulich and Franklin scored for the locals, with Mott the only Oil City man able to locate the basket. The Oilers were the best on fouls.

In the second half of the game the locals opened up with a clever offensive attack that gave them twenty points, and a big lead over their opponents. Lindy Bruce led the assault on the hoops with four nice buckets, while Franklin, Kulich, Uhle and S. Lockley all scored one apiece. Bruce Alexander at center was held scoreless from the field, but played a fine game defensively, and held his man scoreless.

Coach Arnold "Fiz" Fraser had a combination on the court last night that will be hard to beat. The team work was fine, and their offensive ability when points are needed was great.

Flip Coins To See Who Is To Get Buck

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 7.—Because both men shot a buck and neither could fairly determine whose bullet halted its flight, a coin was flipped in the head quarters of Game Protector R. M. McKissick, in Ligonier, to determine its ownership. The buck, a splendid eight point animal, was won by Russell Horner of Ligonier.

His unsuccessful opponent was Joe Marietta, of Laughlinstown.

To Place Doctor In Plaster Cast
CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 7.—Dr. Don C. Fosselman, a member of the staff in charge at the Connelville State hospital this month, has been taken to Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh, with a broken vertebra.

The physician fell on the steps at the entrance of the hospital here and fractured the bone. Ice, which had formed after a slight thaw, was responsible for his fall. He will be placed in a cast.

Another Pre-Season Game Added To Titan Court Card

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 7.—Coach John Lawther's Westminster college passers will have seven pre-season games, latest developments show. The seventh preliminary contest was arranged yesterday with the Sharon Buhl club at Sharon for Wednesday, Dec. 18.

The Buhl club team, with several former college stars and former high school players, is one of the strongest independent teams in the section and will give Lawther's men about as busy an evening as the Titans will have even in the regular season. This game, together with the other six carded, should get the blue and white passers in the best of shape for the opening game against Grove City at Grove City, Jan. 3.

The completed pre-season schedule for the Titans follows: Dec. 12, Slippery Rock State Teachers at Slippery Rock; Dec. 14, Kent State Teachers at Kent, O.; Dec. 17, Mercer Whipples at Mercer; Dec. 18, Buhl club at Sharon; Dec. 20, Youngstown Y college at Youngstown, O.; Dec. 28, Butler Y. M. C. A. at Butler; Dec. 31 (New Years Eve), Adrian college of Michigan at New Wilmington.

The opening game with Slippery Rock is apt to prove a very hard one. The teachers boast a strong team this season and are trying to get a game with Duquesne, thinking they can defeat Chick Davies' crew. Then, too, the teachers want to get back at the Dukes for the 6-0 football defeat this fall. Coach Lawther desires plenty of stiff competition for the Titan quintet before the regular season opens, and from the looks of the preliminary schedule it would appear that he will get plenty of opportunity to see how his men work under fire.

Darlington High Wins Double Bill

Darlington High Boys And Girls Basketball Teams Defeat Enon High Friday

Friday night was a disastrous night for the Enon high athletes, the Darlington high boys and girls teams defeating Enon Valley high representative teams. The scores were, boys' game—Darlington 25, Enon Valley high 18. Girls' game—Darlington 30, Enon Valley high 18.

Both games were interesting and hard fought in all quarters. In the girls game the playing of Miss Mahon with eleven field goals was a big feature for Darlington, while McCowan and E. Trudel played well for Enon.

In the boys' game the work of Marshall was the best for Enon, with McCarter and Henderson the "big shots" for Darlington.

The summaries:
Darlington 30
McCowan 10

Mystery Bullet Nearly Ends Life

CLAYSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 7.—The town was all excited today over what seemed an attack on Elwood Day, a junior of the high school. Some one shot through a door as he was preparing to close the gymnasium for the night after basketball practice. He had just stepped into a dressing room to see that a back door was locked, when a shot was fired through the door, barely missing him. He was so badly frightened that he had to be assisted to his home. Later the bullet was found imbedded in the wall.

No motive can be advanced as to why the shot was fired.

Women's Club Play Again Fills The Shelby Auditorium

Seventy Business Men Put Over Clever Comedy For The Second Time Friday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 7.—The second night of the Women's club play "The Dream of a Clown" attracted an even larger audience than the first night. The show took place last night in the Shelby auditorium, which was filled to capacity for the performance.

The players went through their roles with an abandon which reduced the audience to gales of laughter. The entire comedy was well directed and netted the Women's club over $200, which sum will be used to aid in starting the community home here.

Those responsible for the success of the play are: Mrs. P. L. Schweitzer, chairman of the play; properties, Mrs.
Lillian Thomas; advertising, Mrs. Roland Haines and Mrs. Edie Eggers-Furniss; costumes, Mrs. Arthur Granday and Mrs. Oscar Dahl; tickets,
Mrs. J. J. McLaughlin; and Mrs. Ben
Balter; posters, Mrs. Mervin Haines.
Mrs. Roland Haines was pianist for the production, which aided considerably in the success of the entire performance. The Women's club wishes to thank all those who aided in putting the show over, all the members of the cast, and those merchants who donated properties and flowers.

State Capital Is Buzzing Over Who Will Be Senator

Capital Phones Busy As Governor Fisher Summons Leaders For Conference

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Dec. 7.—The switching in the telephone exchange of the Pennsylvania state capitol flashed incoming and outgoing—mostly outgoing—calls with unwonted zest and celerity today.

For Governor John S. Fisher, back from Reading with the consciousness that he had made his position crystal clear regarding the attitude of U. S. Senator Gerald Nye on a possibly negative vote by the North Dakota Republican on a Fisher senate appointment, placed many local and long distance calls as the day progressed.

The calls, it was believed, were in connection with arrangements for a conference with state leaders on the question of appointing a junior senator from Pennsylvania to fill the seat denied by the United States senate to William S. Vare.

There has been considerable discussion not only as to the identity of the appointee but also as to the political aftermath. Although the appointment of a Vare man to soothe the frayed nerves of the Vare organization was looked for, the Vare machine was understood to have been invited to participate in the conference with a view to considering the big straight party vote of Philadelphia.

Capitol circles were buzzing with rumors that Vare plans to wage a "vindication" campaign in the 1930 primaries. Definite confirmation or rejection of these rumors could not be ascertained. Nevertheless, there was a strong undercurrent of belief that such a campaign never will be made, especially so if Joseph R. Grundy is named as Pennsylvania's junior senator.

The Philadelphia leader's physical condition is believed to be such as to preclude any attempt to enter a political fight, whether or not Grundy is the appointee.

Thus, with Vare out of it, the man appointed by the governor would be the only organization man in the race. Were Vare to enter the primaries, however, in opposition to the governor's appointee, political seers were quick to predict that a three-cornered fight might be the outcome with former Governor Gifford Pinchot leading his forces into a battle similar to that of 1925 when Pinchot opposed both Pepper and Vare.

It is believed that a conference of state leaders and the governor will be held tonight or tomorrow at which time a man to fill the unexpired term and possibly to serve also in the Republican standard bearer in the 1930 campaign will be selected.

Rumors that the meeting would be held in Philadelphia tonight or tomorrow and that Governor Fisher would be present also cropped up today but were considered untenable with the governor's statement that he had made no definite plans for the week-end except as to attending church in this city tomorrow morning.

Letters of Administration in the estate of John C. Hook, late of Shenandoah, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, have been granted to the undersigned. All persons having claims or debts against said estate are asked to present them and all persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make payment without delay.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Sharp Advances Made By Industrial Stocks

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Sharp advances were recorded at the beginning of trading today in the industrial and utility stocks which led Friday's closing spurt. For the first time in a month concerted buying appeared in the motor stocks, which are due at this time for their annual promoter-show rise.

The "Morgan favorites," including standard brands, Johns Manville and United Corporation were turned over at a dizzy pace, but General Electric which supplied most of yesterday's late fire-wires were more subdued. Trading piled up a volume of 845,000 shares in the first half-hour, the ticker trailing about 10 minutes.

With General Electric's stock split-up assured, by the directors' approval, bulls in Wall street were confident that similar action would be taken by the U. S. Steel Corporation directors before the end of the year. A stock dividend of 100 per cent was talked of in the financial district, giving two shares of common stock for each share held. Even at that rate, the outstanding shares would be up to 16,500,000, only 40 per cent as many as General Motors and 60 per cent as large as General Electric.

"Big Steel" raced ahead to 178 1/2 in the first hour, showing a gain of 7 points for the day and 16 points since last week. International Tel and Tel moved upward buoyantly to 84 1/2, up 7 points, on reports of the acquisition of important South American property. American and Foreign Power, the sensation of the sky-rocking utilities, breezed along to 98 for a new gain of 4 1/2 points for the day and 26 points for the week. The bulls snapped the whip over the bears in a number of the trading favorites in the second hour and the pace of the market was the swiftest since the turn of the month. The ticker lagged at times about 21 minutes and late prices were again built from the floor of the stock exchange over the bond tickers and private wires.

With U. S. Steel as the leader, the bulls carried a dozen or more of the favorites to the highest prices of the week. Fox Film A made a new 4-point recovery to 56 3/4 following the announcement of the trustees of the Fox resources in powerful financial hands. American Can was well bought above 124; Westinghouse at 156 1/2; 5; Western Union at 223; up 21; Radio at 45; up 2; Union Carbide at 87 5/8. General Electric slumped off to 250, down 7 points from Friday's high. As enormous profit-taking and short selling swept in Vanadium Steel, Ludlum and Bethlehem reached new high prices on the move. Vanadium was up 2 points at 60 7/8.

Brokerage houses also reported a good volume of investment buying of high grade stocks, based on the definite improvement shown in major division of industry and business this week. Stocks of the big mercantile companies, like Woolworth and Montgomery Ward, rose a few points in active trading.

Taplin Believes Rail Extension Should Be Built

Voices Exception To Objections Raised By Pennsylvania Railroad Before Commission

BRANCH LINE BEING SOUGHT

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Taking exception to the objections of the Pennsylvania railroad to the application of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia railroad for authority to construct a branch line from its Connelville extension to a connection with the Donora Southern, C. F. Taplin and W. S. Bronson, counsel for the P. & W. Va., told the interstate commerce commission today the road was entitled to a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

"The order of the commission authorizing the construction of the Connelville extension intended that the extension should serve Donora, Monessen, Charleroi and other municipalities situated on the Monongahela river," the P. & W. Va. brief said.

"Such additional minor construction as is necessary to enable the P. & W. Va. to reach Donora should therefore be authorized without any further showing of public interest upon the showing made in the case.

This road will receive a very substantial Donora traffic, much greater, indeed, than is necessary to justify the comparatively small amount of money necessary to be expended in constructing the few miles of track connecting up the Connelville extension with the Donora Southern."

Without Consideration

The Pennsylvania railroad contends that Assistant Finance Director Burnside, in recommending the P. & W. Va. application be granted, failed to give "appropriate consideration" to the route of the Pennsylvania and Western Maryland through Connelville to Baltimore, over which it states traffic now moves, but the record does not show route.

"In fact," said the Taplin-Bronson brief, "the record shows that the Pennsylvania has no established through route to Baltimore over the Western Maryland and that it handles Baltimore traffic over its own round-about line through Pittsburgh and Harrisburg. The Pennsylvania made the contention that the commission could force the Pennsylvania to establish a through route to Baltimore via Connelville and western Maryland, but Assistant Director Burnside properly rejected this contention as not determinable from the record.

"It is certainly a fact that the Connelville extension would never have been built but for a substantial volume of Donora and Monessen traffic assured to it before it filed its application.

"To now deprive it of this traffic by refusing to allow it to make minor construction necessary to physically reach Monongahela river valley municipalities would not only make the Connelville extension unprofitable of operation, but would place upon the present Pittsburgh & West Virginia railroad what might well prove to be an unsupportable burden."

Senate Finance Committee Has Okayed Tax Cut

Senate Finance Committee Ready To Recommend Passage Of Tax Reduction

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The administration's $160,000,000 tax reduction program was approved unanimously today by the senate finance committee, with a recommendation for its immediate enactment into law. This speedy action, in the face of reports a Democratic insurgent coalition might make efforts to amend it, increased the hopes the administration that it will be enacted in time to be a Christmas gift to the tax paying public.

The measure already has passed the house and if the senate passes it without change, it will be sent directly to the White House for the president's signature.

Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the committee, announced he would call up the resolution for action the week after the senate has acted on the wool schedule in the new tariff bill.

Merchant Marine Expansion Plans Are Now In Danger

Charges Against Proposition Are Made By Mid-West Southern Bloc

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The vast merchant marine expansion program launched by congress in the Jones-White Act was endangered today by the organization of a Mid-West-Southern bloc to fight the administration's plan to put it into effect.

Charges of discrimination against Southern ports both on the Gulf of Mexico and the South Atlantic, and alleged favoritism in the letting of mail contract subsidies were raised by opponents of the administration.

Some of the most enthusiastic supporters of the legislation enacted two years ago have turned their guns on the Shipping Board and the Postmaster-General, it was learned.

The Treasury-Postoffice annual appropriation bill, which carries funds for the mail subsidies, has been delayed pending efforts to settle the acute differences and to receive new recommendations from Postmaster General Brown.

Two specific charges are raised against the present plan to build a merchant marine.

Decision of cabinet committee to let mail contracts to the Munson Line for a New Orleans-South America service over the Mississippi Shipping Company, which purchased ships from the government.

Alleged favoritism to the North Atlantic and Pacific coast ports over Southern ports.

Body Of Flier Is Taken Home

Remains Of Thomas P. Nelson, Air Mail Pilot Victim Taken To Plainfield N. J.

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 7.—Thomas Perry Nelson, daring and popular aviator, who, as air mail pilot, had fought ice, snow, fog and the treacherous "hell's stretch" of Western Pennsylvania, was being carried on his last trip east Friday.

The body of the flier, which was found near his wrecked mail plane Thursday afternoon in a wooded ravine in Chagrin valley, was carefully placed aboard a train and started on its trip to Plainfield, N. J., and his grief-stricken wife and young son.

Cumulating one of the most dramatic and intensive aerial searches in the history of the nation, Nelson's battered body was found by two rabbit hunters, Joseph Vincent and Louis Bollinger, both of Cleveland, who accidentally stumbled on the plane and the lost flier. Fluttering over the body of the dead aviator was his partly-opened parachute which had unfolded too late to save him from a tragic end.

The accident occurred at 1:55 a. m. Monday while Nelson was attempting to batter his craft against a blinding snowstorm to the Cleveland airport. The time was indicated on a clock in the cockpit of his wrecked plane.

Died of Exposure.
According to acting Coroner Lester T. Reynolds of Geauga county, the flier died of exposure. He had apparently been stunned by a jolting fall as he leaped clear of his machine and died before he regained consciousness.

Nelson had been missing since early Monday morning. For three days a spectacular aerial search over Ohio and Western Pennsylvania took place for the missing aviator. The fourth day, Nelson being still missing, brought two of his old "buddies"—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Phil Love of St. Louis—to command an aerial searching squadron of 25 planes.

Colonel Lindbergh dared death in an all-night flight from New York to assist in the hunt for Nelson. The Lone Eagle, Love and Nelson were "pals" on the old Chicago-St. Louis mail route.

Nelson, who had 2,900 flying hours to his credit, died while sticking to his route. He is the eleventh man to meet death on the New York-Cleveland mail route, which is considered one of the most dangerous in the country.

ABE MARTIN On Following The Procession

NO PAINT, NO CALVES, NO ERRORS. SWEEPIN' THE SIDEWALKS IN 1891.

One of the strangest and most unaccountable things about us today is our unfeeling susceptibility, our readiness and willingness to fall in with anything an "ever" thing, after centuries of civilization, newspapers, railroads, schools and orators. We can be talked or bill boarded into anything these days whether it's something to eat, something to wear or leave off, or something to believe. More'n more we're gittin' to accept everything as a matter of course. We no longer hold out an' quibble, but fall for things right off the bat. "Pay it, what's the use?" is a popular motto. Look how meekly we succumbed to $1.50 watermelons after payin' twenty-five or thirty cents for them for almost a century. An' $3 neckties an' $15 hats an' shoes? All these things didn't slip up on us gradually like the ravages of time. They popped up over-night an' ther wuzn' an' echo. We paid the difference an' went right along chargin' things, payin' eventually. "We don't hear any murmurin'" said a store-keeper the other day. "Customers no longer expect anything fer ther money. If they see somethin' they like an' think they kin afford it, they take it an' have it charged. If the price seems out of reason, they pass on. Ther's no arguin' or talk about 'comin' in agin', or squirmin' to git out of the store. The other day I sold a woman a can o' tomatoes, an' she wouldn't take 'em till I satisfied her that I wuz not losin' money, that the price took care of freight an' all overhead, an' left me a profit. We really have fer more trouble educatin' people to pay less than we ever had teachin' 'em to pay more. People are no longer afraid to take up new things. A style kin be killed off overnight, or somethin' new, an' even startlin', will be universally adopted overnight, especially if the terms are easy. Women are the most darin' when it comes to takin' up with new ideas. Fer ages an' ages women's legs wuz only exploited by low burlesque shows. Girls began to wear ther legs around the age o' fourteen. Street car steps were purposely low, buggies wuz built low an' easy to climb in, an' ever'thing wuz done to protect the vulgar gaze of idlers an' mashers. Ther wuz no occasion fer were steam heated and they ran completely out of numbers giving entirely.

As for the quartet, it is universally agreed that this quartet is the best newspaper quartet in Lawrence county. In fact it is extremely doubtful if the state can produce anything better.

These are the days when the big game hunters are in their element. There are more deer and bear being slain in the barber shops of the state than ever roamed the hills of the state. The slaughter is enormous, with no bag limits and no hunting licenses necessary.

Herb Samuels came back a day or so ago from a tour of Forest county and while Herb didn't shoot any, he claims to have seen a convention of deer. They were rather contrary about the thing, they wouldn't stand still long enough to get themselves shot, and as a result he missed. Bringing back what he thinks is the grandfather of all deer in Pennsylvania.

From his rather sketchy account of the deer, I take it that he had about 28 points, was slightly smaller in size than a Bull Moose and probably weighed half a ton. Sneaking up on him Herb took aim, but just as he pulled the trigger the buck did a side step and the bullet went crashing on.

He was a heroic looking deer, according to Herb. One that would have needed a five ton truck to haul back but he got away. Deer hunting is that way.

Samuels tells a story of one of the party shooting a deer. The first bullet hit a vital spot and in his agony the buck started charging towards the hunter. Alarmed that he hadn't hit it, the hunter pulled up again and fired, the bullet hitting the buck just at the base of one of his antlers, clipping it off as clean as though he had used a saw.

Joe Bulger was in the office today apologizing for not getting to the recent bowling game. It seems that some one in a moment of weakness invited Joe out to dine and before the man could change his mind Joe had accepted.

Just 15 days left to get those drums and baby buggies and radios. If you haven't done your Christmas shopping yet get started and save yourself and the sales girls. Christmas is for all of us but it seems to me that after waiting on a shopping mob for the week before Christmas, getting bawled out by irate customers and accused of passing people up the sales girls would want to spend their Christmas Day in bed. Help them to enjoy Christmas by doing your shopping early.

And spend your money in New Castle.

Wall Street Is "Tightening Up"

Wall Street Takes Tip From President Hoover About "Hard Work" As Formula

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Wall Street, in thorough sympathy with President Hoover's admonition that the formula for success is to be found in "work," was Friday in the throes of a "tightening up" policy that will make itself felt in a no uncertain lay within the next few weeks.

These developments are imminent: 1.—Christmas bonuses are to be whittled down but not too drastically. 2.—The personnel of many brokerage houses is to be pruned and inexperienced and inefficient employees cut off the pay rolls.

3.—Many salary increases which automatically go into effect on January 1 will not be made this year. There will be no reduction in wages, however.

The Christmas bonuses will be quite substantial in many instances but they will not be doled out with the recklessness of last year. Boards of directors of many corporations, banks and institutions have been considering the general situation in the last few days. Many are planning to be just as generous as a year ago but others favor a "cut," and some of the bonuses this Christmas will be split in half.

Bonuses Distributed
Wall Street business men pointed out that already big bonuses have been distributed this year. During the height of the tremendously heavy trading days in "the street," many brokerage houses gave their employees bonuses of two to four weeks salary. During the "rush" thousands of employees were given wage increases and were paid at the rate of time and one half for overtime. Salaries for the year of many thousands of employees will greatly exceed their total pay checks for 1928.

The employees that will be lopped off the payrolls are for the most part regarded as "extra" men. They were put on their jobs late last year and early this year when trading on the stock exchange for a single day frequently exceeded the 4,000,000-share day. The big "bull" markets continued until summer. And, in anticipation of a big fall business, this "extra" help was continued on the payrolls. Then came the big fall markets and, ultimately, the "crash." Now normalcy has been restored and these employees are still going to the cashier's window each week.

It was impossible to obtain an authoritative line on exactly how drastically Christmas bonuses will be cut. No formal announcements have yet been made by any Wall Street firms and none is expected until about Dec. 15.
